After more than a week of downtime, Cockertech is now back online! Please note that we've changed from cockertech.com to cockertech.net. This is a slightly inconvenient but needed change due to a change in server hosting. Details aside, the move seems to have gone smoothly.

For those of you who have been in contact with me previously through e-mail, please be patient while new addresses are created and propogated. I will send all of you who have contacted me within the last month e-mails regarding the status of e-mail and will be issuing appropriate discounts for the lack of communication.
